Adoption is a way of providing a new family for children who cannot be brought up by their birth parents for a variety of reasons. It’s a permanent arrangement, so a child who is adopted will no longer have any legal ties with their birth parents and will become a full member of their new family.

The children are of all different ages with different backgrounds and include:
- Babies
- Toddlers
- Siblings
- School age children
- Babies and children from different ethnic backgrounds
- Babies and children with complex health needs
- Babies and children with disabilities

We need adopters from all different backgrounds with their own life experiences to love and care for our children. Many of our children will have suffered neglect and abuse within their birth families. Your role as an adoptive parent is to provide the support and love they need to build a positive future and give them the life they should have with a loving family.

There is no such thing as an ideal adopter, so please don’t rule yourself out. Adoptive parents come from all backgrounds, cultures and walks of life and they all bring their own skills and experiences.

You don’t need any special qualifications, but you do need to be passionate about helping others and want to make a lifelong commitment to being an adoptive parent.

Adopting a child can be very challenging, but we have training and support for you to guide you through your parenting journey. You will also experience incredibly rewarding moments of enjoyment and pride which can far outweigh the challenges.

To apply to be an adoptive parent you must be:
- Over 21 years old
- Single, married or in a stable relationship
- Prepared to complete training and to undergo personal checks and a home assessment
- Physically and emotionally fit for the task of adopting a child

Can you adopt?

These are some commonly-held beliefs about adoption.

- I’m over 40 so I’m too old to adopt
- I’m a single man so I can’t adopt
- I’m obese so I can’t adopt
- Adoption is for couples who already have children
- The main reason children are put up for adoption is because they’ve been given up by their birth families
- I’m gay/lesbian so I can’t adopt
- I have a criminal record so I can’t adopt
- I’m unemployed so I can’t adopt
- I’m disabled so I can’t adopt
- I can’t adopt children from different ethnic backgrounds

Not one of these is true.

Your journey to adoption

It usually takes under six months to go through the assessment and approval process to become an adoptive parent and we try to go at the right speed for you. We will work together with you and support you to make sure that adoption is right for you and your family as well as the child.

Initial Steps

- Attend an information evening to find out more about adoption. Details of our events can be found at www.couldyouadoptme.co.uk
- An adoption social worker will visit you. If this goes ok, you will be able to complete a registration of interest form.
- We will consider your registration of interest and if you are accepted, you will start the adoption process.

Step 1: Checks and Preparation (up to 8 weeks)

- We will carry out some standard background checks and ask you for details of references to learn about you. These are carried out to make sure you are ready to become an adoptive parent.
- A report will be written leading to a joint decision on whether to proceed to the next stage.

Step 2: Assessment (up to 4 months)

- A social worker will come to visit you at your home and get to know you.
- A full family assessment will be carried out.
- Based on this assessment, a Prospective Adopters Report will be presented to an Adoption Panel.

Step 3: Adoption Panel

The Adoption Panel is made up of children’s care professionals, adopters and people who have been adopted as a child. The panel makes a recommendation about your suitability to adopt. From this recommendation, a final decision will be made on whether you can adopt a child.

Step 4: Approval and Placement

- If you are approved, our Adoption Team will work closely with you and your family and help you make connections and be matched with children who are waiting for an adoptive family.
- Your social worker will work closely with you through the matching and placement of any children by answering any questions you may have and providing you with the support you need.
- The Adoption Panel will make a recommendation about the suitability of the match which the decision maker will have the final say on.

Step 5: Post Adoption Order

- Once an adoption order has been granted by the court, the child will legally become part of your family.
- Post adoption support from our dedicated team is available for you whenever you need it.

“...The matching process is vital. It can be difficult, and there may be hurdles along the way, but you have to remember that if this was your own child, you would want every check possible to make sure they were going into a loving, safe environment. Don’t let it put you off. The adoption team are great, and it is worth it in the end because look what you get – it means you will be a family.”

Ian, adoptive parent
We understand that adoption is a lifelong commitment that you have to be certain about. You may decide you want to pursue fostering for adoption or concurrency.

This means children can be placed with their potential adoptive parents on a foster care basis while they are waiting for the court to make a decision about whether they should be adopted, and while we approve the match between the adoptive parents and the child. Once this has been agreed, the foster care placement becomes a permanent adoption placement and an application for an Adoption Order can be made immediately.

What are the advantages of fostering for adoption or concurrency?

- Children are placed with carers who may become their adoptive parents, giving stability at an early stage.
- It reduces the damage caused by terminating temporary foster care relationships which children and parents could have experienced.
- The child’s needs are the priority.

Is fostering for adoption or concurrency right for me?

Initially, as a foster carer you are caring for the child under the direct supervision of the local authority so you need to consider whether this is something you would be comfortable with. You would need to think about the possibility of the court not agreeing the adoption plan and the child leaving your care.

It is important for you to consider what support you might need, what access you have to support and how you typically deal with stressful, upsetting or painful situations.

There will be specific issues to be thought about in fostering for adoption or concurrency placements and you should try to identify what this might mean for you and your family, and then discuss this with family members and close friends.

“I’m happy living here and so is my tummy.”
Josh (8) after being placed with his new family
Adopting in Northamptonshire

If a court rules that it is not safe for a child to live at home and they need to be placed for adoption, a Care Order and Placement Order can be made. The child is ‘looked after’ by Northamptonshire County Council who becomes the child’s ‘corporate parent’. The council becomes responsible for deciding who the child lives with and has contact with until the Adoption Order is granted. The child will go to live with foster carers, who have been approved by Northamptonshire County Council.

Care Order and Placement Order

The CAMHS service helps support the emotional and psychological health of children and young people.

Child and Adolescent Mental Health Services (CAMHS)

Any experience of dealing with children and young people could be useful if you are considering adoption. Your childcare experience may have been as a babysitter or looking after relatives or working in the childcare sector.

Childcare experience

When Northamptonshire County Council takes over a legal responsibility of a child in our care, they are referred to as a corporate parent.

Corporate parent

Emergency foster care is when a child needs to be placed with a foster carer at very short notice, for example if their birth parent is taken ill, or abuse has been uncovered and the child is deemed as being at risk of further abuse.

Emergency foster care

An interim (or temporary) care order gives the council time to find out more about a child’s welfare to help a court make the right decision about their future. An interim care order lasts for eight weeks but the court is able to extend this. Social workers have 26 weeks to process a case through court.

Interim care order

Independent Reviewing Officer (IRO)

Independent Reviewing Officers make an important contribution to the goal of significantly improving outcomes for looked after children. Their primary focus is to ensure the child’s wishes and feelings are given full consideration. RIO’s follow a child’s progress through care and out to an adoptive family.

Letterbox contact

Letterbox contact is where secure and confidential indirect contact is kept with a child’s birth parents. This is usually in the form of letters. They are passed on through a Letterbox Coordinator. They seek to assure that details of the adoptive family are kept confidential. It is extremely rare for there to be continued direct contact between the birth parent and the child.

Life appreciation days

Life appreciation days will be arranged where professionals involved will meet with the adopters to talk about the child’s journey so far. They can be very moving experiences and very helpful to the adopters when making decisions about the child and their future needs.

Life story work

Life story work gathers information about a child and their birth family and background. They may want to talk about this with you throughout their childhood to help them come to terms with what has happened to them and to give them information about their birth family.

Looked after children (LAC)

When a match has been identified a life appreciation day will be arranged where professionals involved will meet with the adopters to talk about the child’s journey so far. They can be very moving experiences and very helpful to the adopters when making decisions about the child and their future needs.

Panel

The Adoption Panel is a group of independent, experienced professionals who recommend whether a potential adopter is approved.

Permanent long term fostering

In some situations, it is better for the child if they are permanently fostered rather than being adopted. A child will remain with the foster carers until they reach adulthood, but their legal responsibility remains with the council.

Panel
Personal Education Plan (PEP)
Each child or young person in care receives a Personal Education Plan (PEP). This will help set educational and behavioural targets and will make sure that parents, schools and social workers remain in touch.

Placemen t Order
A Placement Order gives Northamptonshire County Council permission to place a child for adoption.

Police checks
If you want to be approved as an adopter, Northamptonshire County Council must legally carry out a police check on you. This is called DBS (Disclosure and Barring Service - previously Criminal Records Bureau) and will establish if there is anything on your record that means you would not be able to adopt.

Post-adoption support
Northamptonshire County Council prides itself on the support it provides even after children have been adopted.

Special guardianship
Special guardianship provides permanence for children when adoption or fostering is not the best option. The special guardian is the child’s permanent carer and can exercise parental responsibility to the exclusion of others on most issues.

Support networks
Your support networks are anybody who could provide you with help and support. This could be friends, family or people in the community or religious groups.

Anna’s story

Anna and her husband Peter, both in their early 30s, have adopted three siblings.

Adoption had always been an option for us. I had a friend at primary school who had been adopted and I saw the value of it and knew it would be something I’d like to do.

Taking on a sibling group
We started the application process and attended an initial preparation training class. We learnt about the number of sibling groups that are split up and the negative impact that has on them. We agreed our house was big enough and we felt we had enough emotional capacity to deal with siblings.

Help and support
From the point when we expressed an interest in adopting our children, we were assigned a social worker and the assessment process began. Thanks to having an experienced social worker – with a superb sense of humour – we actually enjoyed the assessment!

A life-changing experience
The transition from being two career-driven individuals to parents has been frightening as well as fantastic. The journey has been emotional and the enormity of being responsible for three children has been overwhelming at times. We’ve changed as a couple, as well as individually. And we have so much more fun and smiles now! We have already made memories that will last a lifetime. We have set up traditions that we all share. “We have three very happy children and we wouldn’t change it for the world.”
